

I am troubled by news that the broadcast lobby is attempting to stifle competition for XM and Sirius satellite radio services. I listen to XM personally, and have found it to be very enjoyable and a wonderful addition to my life. No commercials and a bountiful selection of music with unrivalled technical quality. And yes, I am paying to have NO commercials! When I listen to broadcast radio here in the SF Bay Area, all I hear is wall to wall commercials and jabber. In fact, what drove me to XM was the non stop bedding and diet pill commercial banter. Ugh!

Please leave the satellite services alone, and let them prosper without impediment from the broadcasters. Thank you for reading this.
